Please join Chaplain Dean Yamamoto and Emetchi as they discuss working with people in the difficult states of EOL and how such “metaskills” as curiosity and a beginner’s mind can prove critical for this work.

SPEAKER: Dean Yamamoto has been a Hospice Chaplain for 7 years, 5 of those with Providence Hospice. He has presented with national audiences with National Hospice and Palliative Care and the Association of Professional Chaplains. Ordained as an Elder in the United Methodist Church and has services churches in Portland, Forest Grove and Los Angeles over a 15 year span.

Emetchi holds an M.A. and is a faculty member of the Process Work Institute. She has a private practice locally as a therapist. She originally hails from New Zealand and has taught Process Work around the world: Australia, England, Mexico and Greece to name a few.
